Today we had a fire fighter injured. , was hurt from a falling beam.

My reports indicate the fire started in the attic in a home, pre existing non-conforming 2 family with four units. The attic fire possibly started due to wiring/AC running all night overloading.

I have said this before, we need a rental registration to protect the residents who rent in our Village. Simply put, the rental registration fee will pay for the employee who does the inspection and performs an annual inspection to make sure the occupancy matches the approval and other safety measures are in place.

Not at the level Shaker Heights Certified level, although that is great, we just need to do a quick check of CO and smoke alarms, GFI's and the appropriate number of occupants/units in the house or building.
